DE LUKE AGENTS RETURN CASH TO WIFE OF GREEK CONSUL, AND SEVERAL SEEK IMMUNITY BY INFORMING

MAN WHO BROKE PHILADELPHIA'S EGG PRICE HERE

H. T. Cassidy, the man who put eggs into the hands of the poor people of Philadelphia when they were selling at prohibitive prices, is in Boston. He told today that he was organizing the society among that city into an effective force and the price of thousands of crates of eggs at 24 cents a dozen while the regular cost was selling the same eggs at 40 cents.

Mr. Cassidy is an egg expert. He was for nine years special agent of the Philadelphia Meat Duty and Food Import was in charge of the Philadelphia district. This is the story:

On Wednesday, the first day we were able to sell eggs, the Housewives League, of the new organization is called, and 350,000 dozen eggs at 24 cents a dozen from forty-three stores. All the newspapers of Philadelphia declared the movement was a tremendous success.

Eggs in Storage.
The situation in Philadelphia is this—there are in storage there 4,000,000 crates of eggs, placed in storage in April. That is the best time to store eggs because of climatic conditions. In that city there are about 1,500 crates more—that is, more than are linked together.

These stores are able to fix the price of eggs for instance, and if the number store cuts the price the chain store can force the competitor out of business.

Ten days ago I attempted to give Philadelphia change rates. I figured that I could sell them at 24 cents a dozen—exactly the same kind of eggs that were being sold at 24 cents a dozen and sold at 30 and 40 cents a dozen by regular dealers. The trade papers declared me for my action, but that didn't matter.

I went to the two big women's clubs in the city, the Century, and the Civic, and members volunteered for the work. The Housewives League was organized with Mrs. William B. Burr as president, Mrs. Owen Wisner, the wife of the socialist, was one of our workers.

Had Forty Carloads.
I had, of course, arranged to get forty carloads. I got 40 carloads on the first day. I put them in my car. I started out and arranged to sell the eggs. I got them in various places. They could not be sold in the city. I got them in various places. They could not be sold in the city. I got them in various places. They could not be sold in the city.

PHILADELPHIA. Dec. 12.—Seventeen additional crates for the sale of eggs at 24 cents a dozen were put on the market today by members of the Housewives League. Fifty-four crates were put on the market today by members of the League.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The condition of William Reid, Ambassador of the United States at the Court of St. James, took a turn for the worse this afternoon. After a consultation of physicians at the Ambassador's residence the announcement was made that his condition was serious. He was unable to leave his bed today, and was thus deprived of the rest that he has been obtaining by sleeping in a chair when his asthma has prevented him from lying down. It was rumored the specialist attended indications of a cancerous growth, but later the physician declared asthma was his only trouble, which, however, is serious at this age.

Bottle Note Tells How Christmas Tree Ship Was Wrecked

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 13.—A bottle that floated ashore at Sheboygan, Wis., today confirmed the story of a sinking of the Christmas tree schooner Benne Stinson. The bottle bore a message showing a record of the vessel's last voyage.

The Stinson had a crew of eight men and has been missing more than two weeks. The message, written on a torn sheet of paper, read:

"Everybody—everybody good-bye. We are all through. We wished our last night on Christmas. During the night the small boat was washed overboard. Looking back, God bless you, I will never forget you. (Signed) The skipper was a bit of wood whittled from a Christmas tree."

MINOT DENIES EXCHANGE CLUB BARRED MAYOR

I was blackballed by the Exchange Club—Mayor Fitzgerald, Mayor Fitzgerald was never blackballed by the Exchange Club, so far as I know—Lawrence Minot, who was chairman of the club's membership committee at the time the Mayor says he was barred.

Mayor Fitzgerald's assertion that he was blackballed by the Exchange Club before the organization of the City Club six years ago was denied by members of the former club today. Lawrence Minot, unofficially by the Mayor as having been the chairman of the club's membership committee at the time he was barred, declared indignantly the Mayor never had been blackballed so far as he knew.

Other Exchange Club members said they were sure the Mayor had not been admitted to membership, but did not believe he had been blackballed. They said the Mayor's application for membership was by letter. The Mayor made his statement at the City Club's dinner, explaining that it was a member of a club which blackballed a man because of prejudice, he would refuse to join the club.

President Daniel G. Wing of the First National Bank, who seconded the Mayor's name for membership in the Exchange Club, said:

"I never knew what did happen. I do not know if the Mayor did become a member of the club."

NAPLES HARBOR EXPLOSION SINKS HUNDRED VESSELS

NAPLES, Dec. 12.—An explosion, followed by fire, occurred in the harbor today. More than 100 small sailing vessels were reported destroyed or damaged. Immediately following the explosion the Mayor of Naples was requested by the harbor commandant to send all available destroyers to the water front and to arrange for the disposition of bodies that might be recovered.

It was rumored that the entire cargo of a ship loaded with dynamite had blown up. Two hours after the explosion most of the sailors in port had been accounted for, and the authorities said the loss of life would be small, with the probability that nobody had been killed.

The boats veered off. The big steamer went on her way, hardly disturbed. The ferry boat, with its passengers somewhat excited, finished her trip to the East Boston wharf and then went out of commission for examination and repairs.

The boats were late and crowded on the last day of the season. The vessels met at right angles. The hull of the ferry was not injured.

Keep Your Tickets, Standing New Haven Rider Tells Others

Palmer lives on the Belmont branch. The trains were late and crowded on the last day of the season. Palmer could not get a seat. Facing his way from one car to another he cried:

"All of you who are standing refuse to give up your tickets. This is the only way we can get service."

"De Luxe" Agents Return Cash to Wife of Greek Consul, and Several Seek Immunity by Informing

A complete restitution of $20,000 in cash has been made by "de luxe" book agents to Mrs. Demosthenes Timpanis, wife of the Greek consul in Boston. It was over her losses in the "rare edition" swindle, according to statements made by prominent officials. County authorities this afternoon, with the statement came the news that several of the book agents have made offers to the authorities of full restitution, as a result of the Grand Jury action in the case.

Seventh Circuit Indictment

The Suffolk Grand Jury today returned a seventh circuit indictment in its final report to Judge Brown of the Superior Court. Shortly after the report was made, District Attorney Folger left for New York to confer with District Attorney Whitman regarding the prosecution of the book swindle.

Following the indictment by the Suffolk Grand Jury, it was stated that five arrests are expected in Boston, one of them being a prominent book dealer. Three arrests are expected in New York on the Boston indictment.

The Boston inspectors declared that apparently the "rare book" men are being so frightened that they have either fled to cover or are anxious to make restitution in the hope of getting immunity. Within the past thirty days, one of the best known agents had offered to the authorities, saying he would make restitution if he would not be prosecuted. After this case could be made with impunity.

No Immunity Offered

Neither the government nor the county officials would accept the offer. It is their claim that there is plenty of evidence in the hope of getting immunity. Within the past thirty days, one of the best known agents had offered to the authorities, saying he would make restitution if he would not be prosecuted. After this case could be made with impunity.

Offering Restitution

The authorities declared that fraudulent book agents had attempted to make restitution of money in other cases, and had been refused in some instances by persons who said they would resist on a prosecution.

MELLEN THANKS THE AMERICAN; IS READY TO WRITE FOR THE PEOPLE

Charles S. Mellen, president of the New Haven Railroad, today, in a message to the AMERICAN, sets a date which he will try to have ready for the public a full statement of his part in the now famous Grand Trunk deal.

MR. MELLEN'S TELEGRAM.

New York, Dec. 12, 1912.

The Boston AMERICAN,
Summer Street,
Boston, Mass.:

I thank you for the fair and full presentation of my letter of yesterday, and I also thank you for the broad and manly spirit which you have shown in your offer to publish in full two columns from me so soon as I can prepare it, and to let everybody else publish it at the same time. I must be in New York Friday and Saturday, in New England with my family Sunday, in New Haven Monday and in Portland, Me., on Tuesday, but somewhere en route before next Thursday, I hope to have opportunity to dictate an article for the people of New England and New York, whose servant I am.

Very sincerely,

CHAS. S. MELLEN.

Mr. Mellen's telegram follows the publication in the AMERICAN, yesterday, of a letter from him promising under certain conditions to give the story of his part, if any, in the arrangement whereby the Grand Trunk Railroad ceased building in Rhode Island and gave up its plans to build to Boston.

The conditions laid down by Mr. Mellen were that he be given two columns on the first page for his story, that the story be not illustrated with cartoon or answered by Louis D. Brandeis on the same day, and that his letter containing these conditions be published. The AMERICAN gladly agreed to all these conditions in order that the people of New England may know all they can about the most unusual railroad deal of a generation.

BEWARE!

Today Is Friday the Thirteenth

Here's that championship jinx day again! It's Friday, the Thirteenth. Yes, the Big Jinx is with us once more. So look out for the hoodoo.

Be sure you don't start anything you can't finish. Better not eat, or you might choke. If superstitious, don't work, but lay off until midnight tonight. Don't walk, or you might turn an ankle. Don't use the stairway—it might escalate you to the bottom. Just lay low.

Scientists say the best way to beat the jinx is to get a rabbit's foot, wear nine-four leaf clovers over the heart, put your shirt on inside out, and then lock the door and stay indoors all day. Even then the plastering may fall on you.

FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH.

Freight train ran off the track at Readville, holding up inbound commuters through the morning rush hours.

The first fire of the hoodoo day came promptly at 12:15 a. m. on Otis street. Firemen had to wait for the gas inspector to turn off the gas.

EMERSON TELLS HIS OWN STORY AS A WITNESS

HOUSTON, Me. Dec. 12.—Rev. Charles Nelson Emerson, the former pastor who is on trial with his mother-in-law and his brother-in-law on the charge of slaying C. Augustine Jacobson, whose daughter he afterwards married, took the stand today to tell his story in his own defense. Immediately before the trial, the order of the court was reversed and the accused charged passed a test which showed his trust and confidence were superior to the doctrine he had taught from his pulpit.

If Emerson had been walking toward a jail he would have walked out with a white confidence that he did as he stepped toward the stand. He was dressed, and immaculately. As he stepped upon the witness stand he adjusted his glasses and smiled pleasantly at the jury.

"Charles Nelson Emerson," he replied in a clear and manly voice when his attorney asked him the name.

The minister was examined by Attorney Shaw.

Q.—From the time you met August Jacobson what were your relations with him? A.—Very pleasant.

Q.—Where did you go on June 11, 1911? A.—At home in the morning, in the afternoon went to Stockholm and that evening was in church.

Q.—What time did the meeting close? A.—Shortly after 10, a few minutes later I started for home.

Q.—Did you see the Jacobson home? A.—At 11:15 I approached the home and drove into the yard. I stayed three or four minutes. Mrs. Jacobson came to the door. I saw her when I took to be Edward standing out in front of the house.

Q.—What time did you arrive home? A.—I should say about 12. I went into the house and took my coat off.

Q.—Did you leave the room that night? A.—No, not until 7:30 next morning.

Q.—At breakfast in the morning, did you see a phone message, I left the table and started at once for the Jacobson home? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you go on the morning drive? A.—Yes.

Q.—I said that Jacobson was a man of extraordinary will, never capable of doing anything, and that I did not have the least respect for a man who would counsel such a act and bring such a crime.

Q.—On Sunday night when you left the Jacobson home to drive to your residence was the top on your car? A.—No.

Q.—When you heard Peter Younger say that August Jacobson was dishonest, did you say that Jacobson was dishonest?

Q.—I said that Jacobson was dishonest, and that I did not have the least respect for a man who would counsel such a act and bring such a crime.

3 PASSENGERS SAIL IN STATE ABOARD SAXONIA

The saloon passenger, not of the Cunard line, which sailed today, looks all records for twenty years ago. The passengers, twenty years ago a Cunard liner crossed the ocean with one whole saloon passenger. Who he or she was and what were the circumstances of the sailing, waterfront historians fail to recall.

Of course there is a feminine majority among the three who sailed today. They are:

James Driver of Boston,
Miss Ruth Hayward of London,
Miss V. M. A. Lofe of London.

The variable position of Mr. Driver of Boston with two English girls as voyaging companions was a matter of pleasant comment at the Cunard docks. But just who this Mr. Driver is—whether he is young, single and romantic, or old, married and practical, the Saxonia's cabin list did not reveal.

The reason for the limited saloon list is the delay in the Saxonia's sailing. She was due to go last Tuesday, but was held by better routes.

Thomas Greenham of Roxbury would have sailed the Saxonia, but for the aid of passengers to whom he said: "I've got to get aboard. I promised my mother I'd spend Christmas with her." They found a quick plank and made a steep "runway" to an open port. Greenham scrambled up and got aboard.

HE, EIGHTY, WAS LONESOME. I was lonesome in my great home of twenty-four rooms—ADOLPHUS OSBORNE, FORTY, FOUND HIM "IDEAL."

"I married him because I loved him for his sterling qualities," Mrs. Adolphus Osborne, the Brooklyn bride of a Cambridge man twice her age, today told just why she married. "I was because a man of Mr. Osborne's age was past making mistakes, because he never drank nor smoked, because he was my ideal. His money had nothing to do with it, she declared in a remarkable interview in which she continued:

He looks to be about fifty, one might imagine that a man of eighty might find wrinkles overpowering his face, but not so with Mr. Osborne. He suits me perfectly.

He has been married once before. A man who has been through the business world and has been twice far as successful in every way is none my ideal that a man forty years his junior who would be apt to make many mistakes in later years. Mr. Osborne has never taken a drink nor smoked.

People who marry often have a hard row to hoe because they do not understand and cannot cope with the serious shades of life.

I look forward to many years of happiness. Mr. Osborne's money had nothing to do with our romance.

I married him because I loved him for his sterling qualities. It was our mutual love for Mr. Osborne's grandchild, Louise Langdon, an actress, that first brought us together and then our own romance began.

It developed today that by introducing the couple in her dressing room at a Brooklyn theatre, Miss Langdon played a real life romantic part which she can often best called upon to perform on the stage. During her stay at the Brooklyn theatre, Miss Langdon and Louise Langdon, the actress, met.

Mrs. Adolphus Osborne.

as he entered. Then he saw Miss Washington. She greeted her grandchild's beauty. Then she said:

"Miss Washington, this is Mr. Osborne, my grandchild. I am happy to be able to introduce you."

Then there Mr. Osborne fell in love. He has told of how he had been feeling lonesome for some time to his twenty-four room house in which he lived all alone. Often when she said Miss Langdon would visit him, but her work kept her away most of the time.

The introduction started the romance. The actress of Broadway only missed late love, and after a while came a trip to North Haverhill, Mass., where the girl took place.

"I do owe a lot to my grandchild," said the octogenarian. "My wife is still at Haverhill, but I expect for some few days and we are going to have a very merry Christmas together. I guess we'll hang up our stockings and we have Santa Claus here too."

I have a vision here which my wife called of my grandchild. "The face of my grandchild and I'm very fond of that picture."

BOSTON WOMEN FACE ARREST IN CUSTOMS PLOT

Several expensively gowned Boston women, believed to be connected with a plot to smuggle goods across the city, are being shadowed by a score of government inspectors and may be arrested at any time, according to a dispatch from Washington this afternoon.

The message quotes Chief Wilkie of the Secret Service Bureau at Washington as the authority for the information.

The dispatch followed word received from New York that the federal agents there had uncovered a smuggling conspiracy and that agents in the Back Bay were making diligent night watches. At Washington Chief Wilkie said:

Customs inspectors have noticed an unusually large number of apparently well-to-do women, wearing late fashions, wearing expensive clothes and having much of their trunk of other wearing apparel. These came from Quebec, Montreal and other Eastern cities.

They were shadowed, but little could be learned of them. Finally inspectors noticed that a number of these women were coming from Europe. They followed these women off the boats, brought them to Boston, and finally gathered enough information to arrest them.

No arrests have been made yet, but they will be at any time that it would be feeling to make public the names as yet, as it would give the offenders an opportunity to make good their escape.

A score of special agents, the names of whom cannot be made public until after their work is finished, have been assigned to this particular class of smuggling for weeks, and their work now is about to bear fruit.

"MAIL EARLY," IS
XMAS WARNING
OF POSTMASTER

Mail early, allow twice the usual time, and avoid the rush, is Postmaster Mansfield's advice to Uncle Sam's Christmas patrons. He also adds, in a postscript:

Wrap your packages securely. Use heavy paper for the outer covering and tie them with strong twine. Address them "right"—put your own address in the left-hand corner. Relative to the postage required on parcels the poster calls attention to the fact that parcels carrying letter postage—2 cents per ounce—may be mailed by the owner. For advance delivery on Christmas packages and letters use special delivery stamps, and buy money orders early, is another point.

CANDY TRUST
ATTACKED BY GOVERNMENT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—The candy trust was attacked by the government here today when representatives of the Department of Justice filed a civil suit against the Juggling Confectioners' Association in the United States Court. The suggestion of the government is that members and officers of the association have combined and conspired to coerce candy manufacturers, and to prevent them from selling directly to retailers, consumers or jobbers other than the members of the association. The association is declared a combination in restraint of trade, and its dissolution is asked under the Sherman antitrust law. Andrew C. Kueper is president of the association.

TAFT MAY TOUR WORLD TO AID PEACE IN 1914
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Taft and Mrs. Taft, according to reports from today, will start on a world tour fourteen months after his retirement from office in the interests of universal peace. His expenses, it is suggested, may be defrayed by the Carnegie peace foundation. The fact that the President's program contemplates the delivery of lectures in support of arbitration lends color to the suggestion. It was under the auspices of the Carnegie peace foundation that Charles W. Eliot, president-elect of Harvard, toured the world last Spring.

IRISH CONCERT BY W. J. DWYER AND MISS EDITH BARNES
 A concert of Irish music by Michael J. Dwyer, tenor, and Miss Edith Barnes of the Boston Opera Company, drew a large audience to Tremont Temple last night. The program included a score of the famous songs and ballads of Ireland, ranging from the old to the new. Miss Barnes, soprano, harpist, and Carl Lammson, pianist, assisted.

Michael J. Dwyer is perhaps the best tenor in this country who is not engaged in earning his living by his voice. It is a pity that he is not more widely known. He sings Irish music with a sympathy, a tenderness, a love that only one who has lived in the Irish country could understand. His voice is very flexible, extremely well controlled and perfectly adaptable to the most delicate and most powerful of music. The sweet melodies of Moore rolled grandly from his lips, and the patriotic songs had proper fire and force.

Miss Edith Barnes is the possessor of a lyric soprano voice of unusual quality. Her range is very great and the quality is extraordinarily good. In her own opinion, the jewel song from "The Rose Tree" was her best. It was sweet at its best, and its effect on the audience was electrifying. She has also a happy sense of humor and a perfect sense of rhythm. Her singing of several of the lighter Irish songs gave much pleasure. Miss Barnes is an accomplished harpist, and her playing of the harp was much appreciated.

What Hour Should a Man Start Home?
 Read What Some Wives Think About the Time Husband Should Return.

Editor AMERICAN:
 I have been deeply interested in the question of the time a husband should come home at night. I have had some trouble with my husband, but the question, not so much on account of the fact that he stays out, but because he does not telephone me that he is going to do so and I keep wondering what he is doing.

WHAT HOUR SHOULD A MAN START HOME?
 Read What Some Wives Think About the Time Husband Should Return.

Editor AMERICAN:
 I have been deeply interested in the question of the time a husband should come home at night. I have had some trouble with my husband, but the question, not so much on account of the fact that he stays out, but because he does not telephone me that he is going to do so and I keep wondering what he is doing.

What do YOU think is a decent hour for a man to go home?
 Men-about-town have expressed themselves variously on the subject, their opinions ranging from 8 p. m. to 2 a. m.

Should the homeward journey begin at the curfew hour or when chivalric's call heralds the dawn?
 Husbands, proclaim yourselves! Wives, what do YOU think? Write your opinion in fifty words and mail it to the "Decent Hour Editor of the AMERICAN."

Equal Rights for Both.
 Editor AMERICAN—Let the husband exact nothing more of his wife than she does of himself. If he has an evening out, the wife should have hers, and if he thinks his wife should not ask questions if he should be out until the small hours of the morning.

Marriage is a partnership, and as such both partners should have equal privileges. Not one, but two heads. In husbandry if one partner takes all the privileges the partnership is soon dissolved. So should it be with marriage. Equal privilege for both.
 MRS. A. J.

GOETHALS FOR WAR SECRETARY LATEST REPORT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Colonel Goethals, Panama Canal builder, is the latest prospective member of President Wilson's Cabinet. It is stated on excellent authority that Colonel Goethals has been much in the mind of Governor Wilson, as a good selection for Secretary of War.

Wilson, the man of books, has turned a keen admiration for the man of practical labor and is enthusiastically over the rapid completion of the canal task. He feels that Goethals would apply practical business methods to the War Department.

Colonel Goethals is a firm believer in constructive action. He is a Republican but has had so little time to devote to politics that he is practically a political innocent.

OLIVE Tablets OIL the Bowels

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help, take Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets, substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing bad aftereffects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been a devotee of the use of olive oil, and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice. He has found for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. It is his efforts to bring without Calomel the developed his own famous little olive-oil-coated tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective, safe and pure. Pleasant to take, but nothing to result. Olive Tablets are the only tablets enough to start Nature's own action, and they line up the liver at the same time. They are made from a pure combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a charm. 10 and 25 cents per box.

SHOOT HIMSELF IN BRAIN; WALKS TO THE HOSPITAL

After shooting himself squarely in the temple, then walking a quarter of a mile to the Central Police Station, Cambridge, and riding from there to the Bellet Hospital in an ambulance, E. Edward Karl, thirty-two, is anxious to live.

He is said to be in a serious condition, with slight hope for recovery. The bullet lies behind his right temple.

Karl lodged with Mrs. Ella J. Anderson, on the second floor of "The Alma," an apartment house at No. 752 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. He was in his room when Mrs. Anderson left home. On her return with her son, Robert Warren, Mrs. Anderson saw Karl leave his room and walk to the bathroom with a bloodstained towel around his head.

Warren asked what was the matter, and Karl replied, "Oh, I shot myself." He had a superficial wound on the top of his head, and a hole in his right temple.

When Karl reached the hospital he begged the surgeons to use every effort to save his life, declaring that he wanted to live.

From an investigation made in Karl's room the police believe that he stood before a mirror and fired twice at his head. Karl has lodged at the Alma about six weeks. He is said to have come from Stamford, Ct., where he has a wife and daughter.

SUICIDE NOTE ON COLLAR; SEEK BODY

All over new taken police and dropped into the sea.

This note, written on a white linen collar, was found at the side of a man when Mrs. Walter Daryshire of No. 47 Third street, Cambridge, found it in her hand.

The note was signed "Mr. D. 47 Third street, Cambridge." It was found on the collar, a black derby hat and a necktie, were found at the edge of the seawall of the South Boston strand, near the South Boston Yacht Club.

The Boston police are investigating, and will drag the harbor. The Cambridge police suspect the suicide theory.

Mrs. Daryshire says her husband gave her five dollars when he left home. He complained of a headache, she says.

Peter Sterling, '12. Halted in Race for Presidential Chair

"The Honorable Peter Sterling" of Paul Leicester Ford's novel, had no higher idea than Peter Sterling, twelve years old, whose progress towards the presidency was halted when he was arrested in State street and sent back to his home in Salem.

Peter had been living with John O'Leary, his guardian, in Salem. He determined to become President, so ran away and made his way to Boston. He would only go as far as Christian Science, who lives in Medford, but she advised him to go back home.

Peter didn't. He got work in a State street telegraph office. There the police found him. Peter admitted his identity and frankly explained his aims.

WHITMAN HONORED AT GREAT BANQUET OF NOTED CITIZENS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Representative Whitman of this city to the number of one thousand honored District-Attorney Charles R. Whitman at a dinner in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor, which proved one of the greatest testimonies ever paid a public official in New York County. Time and again the guest of honor was treated as a partisan official, who had vindicated the fair name of New York City by expelling the police system.

The district charge was made that had not District-Attorney Whitman taken personal charge of the investigation of the (journalist) murder within an hour after the crime there would never have been a Barker trial and no convicted murderer in the death house at Sing Sing.

When one speaker referred to the presence of Mrs. Whitman in a gallery lost the district attorney's native assembly arose and drank her health.

More for Drinks Than Books AND HARVARD STUDENTS PAY A STILL BIGGER AMOUNT FOR CIGARETTES

Pay Out $83,220 a Year for Taxis, and $7,365 for Candy.

Harvard men spend more money for taxis and liquor than they do for books, and more for cigarettes than they do for wine and liquor. Discovery of this fact caused again today the question: "What is the benefit of a college education, especially?"

Here is the smoke-drink-book proposition, as listed in the annual expenditure of the Harvard students:

Books $17,250
Wine and liquor 72,500
Cigarettes and cigars 98,225

As there are more than 5,000 men in all departments of Harvard College and University, the average expenditure for books comes to $34.

Item of $73,500 for Drinks. The item of $73,500 for drinks recalled the assertion made a few months ago by Mr. Crane, a Chicago millionaire, that there was too much drinking among Harvard men. There was warm discussion of this charge at the time.

The University Register, a publication of the student council shows that undergraduate expenses, as against $2,850,000 for tuition, board and room rent.

The figures were compiled by a special group of men from the college and graduate schools. They are based on the expenditures of the men themselves for a period of several years, on the expenditures of friends who have been willing to furnish "confession" and upon a series of sources of general information. They are believed to be just about as correct as possible.

Tailors Get $530,485. More than $500,000 is spent by Harvard men for clothing, and this sum is not all from the Gold Coast, either. An imposing sum is paid for cigars and cigarettes—chiefly cigarettes—gold and pearl buttons, the popular coronet pipe, cash, flowers for the weaker sex, taxis, jewelry and confectionery for that same weaker sex. Theatre tickets and the various-colored drinks that accompany the after-theatre "supper."

The probability of the man who has just earned his A. B., for example, to marry is perhaps partially explained by the $22,340 item for divers.

To keep the $500,000 worth of clothes in repair and properly cleaned at all times the undergraduate collectively spends $20,485, or the equivalent of more than $60,000 suits pressed during the course of his college career.

The last companies receive $53,220 and it is said that more than the old $229 has gone in this to divers.

Boston's reputation for cheapness has been reflected in the $16,020 item for restaurants and the waitress underpaid that has threatened pneumonia, when the taxi has not been utilized has been counteracted by $41,765.

Harvard late by the doses and more sent over the goal posts on the Yale field on a memorable occasion a few Saturdays ago, which fact, nevertheless,

BOSTON AMERICAN Says John Bull to Uncle Sam:

NO. 50 AND 52 SUMMIT ST., BOSTON, DECEMBER 13, 1912.

Largest Circulation in New England,
DAILY and SUNDAY.

WHY WAS DR. ALFRED D. SHEA PARDONED?

Pelletier Right and Foss and Council Absolutely Wrong.

District Attorney Pelletier very properly criticizes and condemns Governor Foss and the Governor's Council for pardoning and declaring "innocent" Dr. Alfred D. Shea after the latter had been found guilty and sentenced for illegal surgery.

According to District Attorney Pelletier the case was clearly proven against Shea. It was tried in open court. He was convicted by a jury. He was sentenced to punishment.

But without the knowledge of the District Attorney the Governor's Council, holding a secret session as the Governor's Council always does not only overruled the District Attorney, the judge and the jury, but declared Shea INNOCENT on ex-parte testimony.

This is another important case that proves that Publicity, for which the AMERICAN has made a persistent fight, is one of the most important things that could be obtained not only in the Governor's Council, but in every other department of official life in Boston.

As a matter of fact, the Governor's Council has no right to declare a man "innocent" after a judge and jury has found a verdict of guilty. The Council did not hear both sides of the case.

If the Governor and his Council had consulted with the District Attorney and the judge who tried the case, and they had all agreed that Shea should be set free, there would be no criticism to make. But neither the Judge nor the District Attorney was consulted. And neither the Judge nor the District Attorney knew that Shea was to be declared "innocent" until the pardon had been made public.

This is a grave miscarriage of justice. It is time that the Governor's Council stopped interfering with the courts of law and justice in this Commonwealth.

A Little Late in the Day to Pull Down the American Flag to Oblige England

If the Thirteen Small States Could Manage Their Own Affairs, Protect Their Own Territory and Tell England to Attend to HER Business, the United States of Today Should Be Able to Take Care of American Territory at Panama and Elsewhere.

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Press-Columbian.

The American people built that Canal with money from their own pockets. We didn't go begging to England for the cash. We paid it.

The Canal is built on AMERICAN TERRITORY.

We OWN that territory. It is just as much a part of the United States as Wabash avenue in Chicago.

The Canal territory is more a part of the United States than Canada is a part of Great Britain, for it is nearer home than Canada to England, and it is more important to us than Canada to England.

When we built the Panama Canal, we rendered a great service to all the nations in the world. For one dollar that will be saved to American ships going through the canal, many hundreds of dollars will be saved to the ships of other nations—for they have more ships.

We have—unwisely and with lack of patriotism—established rules for the Canal that compel ocean-going American ships trading between Europe and America, or Asia and America, to pay for the use of the Canal the same as foreign ships.

The only things that we have done for America and for American shipping are to permit our coastwise ships to go through free—making the Canal a part of the water along our shores—AND TO FORTIFY THE CANAL SO THAT, IN CASE OF WAR, FLEETS ATTACKING US WOULD NOT BE ABLE TO USE THE CANAL AS A QUICK ROAD FROM THE ATLANTIC TO THE PACIFIC FROM OUR EASTERN TO OUR WESTERN DOOR.

This country has spent hundreds of millions of dollars to give to all the nations of the world a short cut from ocean to ocean. We shall with OUR Canal save millions to the commercial fleets of all the European nations, and we shall add to the profits of Great Britain more than to the profits of the United States by far.

That Canal belongs to us, and is a part of this country, and is its property, just as the Manchester Ship Canal belongs to England, or as Fleet street belongs to London.

We throw the Canal open to the world, we make our own ocean-going ships pay as much as the ships of other nations, so that all of the ships that cross the ocean use the Canal on equal terms.

We simply reserve to ourselves the right to let our coastwise steamers use the Canal free—and that is no competition with foreign ships, since we do not permit foreign ships to engage in coastwise trade AT ALL.

The Canal is a quick road, a new door, leading to our West. When we built that Canal, it was as though a man had put a new door into his house. And when England objects to our fortifying that new door, it is as idiotic as though a man should object to his neighbor putting a lock on a new door into his house.

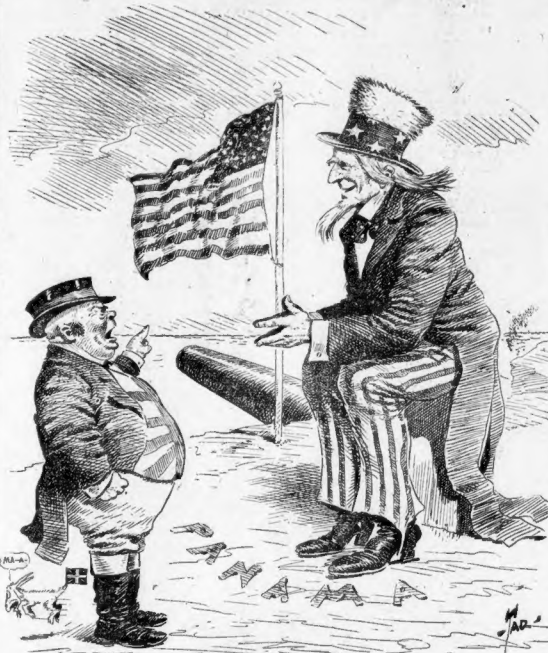

It is the habit of England to ask for everything that doesn't belong to her, and then try to compromise by taking half of that which does not belong to her.

England's request to this country to pull down the American flag over the Panama Canal, and allow the English to use that piece of American territory as they please, is not at all new.

A good many years ago, as early as 1776, the English objected to any kind of an American flag, on any kind of American territory. It took something of a struggle to make them give up the notion that the flag ought to come down there.

England is wiser now. And after a little while she will give up the foolish effort—even though it be encouraged by treacherous American newspapers and American officials—to put American territory and American enterprise under English control.

Dorothy Dix's Article

—ON—
The Rearing of Boys.
The Mother Is Responsible for Her Son Being a Hoodlum or a Gentleman

By DOROTHY DIX.

IT happens that I have to ride daily on the subway at an hour when the cars are filled with high school boys, going home from school. They are nice looking lads, well dressed and giving evidence that they belong, for the most part, to middle-class families, who are to be presumed to be cultivated and refined, and observe the decrees of civilized life.

Yet these boys have been so badly brought up and have been taught so little courtesy and civility toward women that when they get on at a station they make a brutal rush for the car, jostling people aside and running over everybody in their path, in their eagerness to secure good seats.

Once seated, they never even think of such a thing as offering their places to women.

I have seen them sit with feeble, gray-haired ladies, old enough to be their grandmothers, swayed painfully and precariously from side to side, as they tried to hold on to straps. I have even seen them roll back in their seats while before them stood that object of universal tenderness and consideration, a mother with a baby in her arms.

These boys are but types of the younger generation, who appear to be utterly destitute of any courtesy toward women.

Giving Up Seats in Cars to Women Shows Breeding

Watch where you will, and when a man gives his seat to a woman in a car, nine times out of ten you will see that his back is gray. Rarely, rarely ever, will it be a boy in his teens.

There is much excuse to be made for the tired business man who has been hard at work all day who keeps his seat during the long ride home, so no wonder how many women have to stand, but there is no palliation whatever for the lack of manners displayed by the boy, who is not even in the very beginning of his way to engage in some athletic game, and who keeps his seat in a car while any woman stands.

It makes the beholder wonder what sort of mothers rear these hoodlum youngsters, and what any woman can be thinking about who does not instill respect and consideration for women into her sons.

Certainly it gives you a very low opinion of her, and of the family from which the boy comes, for at least until a lad is grown he bears the home stamp upon his every action. If he treats women without respect, it is because he has seen his mother treat that woman with his hat on his head, it is because he has seen his old woman stand, it is because he has never been taught any ideas of civility toward age and helplessness. If he sits while any woman stands, it is because his mother stands, it is because his mother stands, it is because his mother stands.

Which are you doing, mothers? Are your sons growing up to be gentlemen, or street car boys? By their manners we know them. And we also know you, for you are responsible for the way in which they treat other women.

Give East Boston That Park

What are the Mayor and the City Council doing toward providing a water front park for the people of Ward 2 in East Boston?

The City Government is establishing Aquariums, Zoo and making provision for a Boys' Stadium, which is quite right, but it is doing nothing to provide the people of Ward 2 with a park for which they have asked as long.

The people of East Boston have been striving for three years to obtain this park. Following a mass meeting in East Boston last August, Councillor Attridge presented an order to the City Council asking for an appropriation of $200,000 for a water front park in Ward 2. It was referred to the Finance committee, who called a meeting, which was attended by a hundred representative men, all of whom favored the establishment of the park. There was not one dissenting voice.

Since that time nothing has been done with reference to this all important matter to the people of Ward 2. The people of East Boston, particularly the people of Ward 2, have petitioned, have passed resolutions, have waited upon the Mayor and the City Council and have done everything possible to have this matter considered, yet nothing is done.

There is no time for further temporizing and procrastinating. The appropriation should be made, and made at once.
